Re: In re Martense New York, Inc., Case No. 09-48910 (CEC)

Dear Gary:

I have your letter of November 1, 2010 addressed to the Court. A copy of the correspondence is attached for your ready reference.

When you spoke to me at the end of last week and asked that I accommodate your schedule, I advised you that I was available every afternoon during the week of November 29, 2010, however, I asked that the matter not be put on in the afternoon of November 29, 2010 because I have an appellate brief due that day and because of the long Thanksgiving weekend. I am also available in the afternoon on December 6, December 7 and December 8, 2010.

In point of fact, I had planned to take off the Wednesday before Thanksgiving.

I was surprised to receive your letter indicating that the motion had been adjourned to November 29, 2010 at 10:00 a.m., which is truly an impossibility for me.

November 2, 2010

Adjourning this matter was an accommodation to you and I would appreciate your contacting the Court and rescheduling this matter, subject to Judge Craig's calendar for any afternoon as outlined above.

Sincerely yours,

Re: In re Martense New York, Inc., Case No. 09 - 48910 (CEC)

Dear Judge Craig,

This firm represents New York Community Bank. This letter will confirm the adjournment of the evidentiary hearing that commenced but did not finish on October 26, 2010. The adjournment date was originally set for November 1, 2010, but that date presented a conflict with another court appearance. The next available date provided by your Honor is November 29, 2010 at 10:00 AM. All parties consent to the adjournment.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any question.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/ Gary Ravert
